

Fire protection

AQ90 case study

Telecommunications, UK

Project

Telecommunications equipment room

Fire risk analysis

Critical electronic telecommunications room equipment protection.

Further information

Tel.
+44 (0)121 693 6888
Fax
+44 (0)121 430 6007
E-mail
mail@autoquench.co.uk

Internet sites

www.autoquench.co.uk

Solution

A small fire suppression system using a clean gas agent was required to protect a compact telecommunication room.

Two AQ90's filled with FM200 were supplied for direct ceiling mounting within the telecoms area. FM200 is a low-pressure halon replacement gas that has similar fire fighting properties. Being safe to use in occupied areas, FM200 is non-toxic and leaves no residue.